Note: I have taken a number of overseas trips with a spouse - albeit not a family of four - and a cost was never associated with it. I am glad we are addressing it now.

Here are two optional itineraries we will present to Administrator on Wednesday. You will see they have added three people to the delegation.

Hello Millan,

I returned from Italy last night and will have a lot of information to share with you on Monday. I am attaching two agenda options for us to consider in our meeting with the Administrator on Wednesday. One includes an audience with the Pope and the other does not. I look forward to walking you through both agendas.

Today was the deadline to secure hotel rooms in Rome. Our hotel is just across the street from the U.S. Embassy so it is a very convenient location, and the staff there was very friendly. I learned from Jane today that Ryan, J.D., and Sarah are now joining the mission. The Embassy has contacted the hotel to see if they can add these three rooms to our contract as well.

By the way, the Embassy asked me to note that it will cost about $300 Euro per day for a car and driver for the Administrator's family. Their car will be able to join the Administrator's motorcade when appropriate, but liability issues prevent the family from being able to ride in the official vehicles. On another matter, the Embassy also kindly requested that the Administrator depart Italy from Bologna rather than Rome. They note that the added expense is prohibitive and stress on their staff resources make it very much preferred for the Administrator to depart from Bologna if at all possible.

Hope your Easter was good and that you have a nice weekend.

Mark
